Description of Research, Teaching and Service Interests

I focus on critical theory, class, ethnicity, and gender, transnationalism and the state, and human rights. I have three research trajectories: Central Europe, primarily Poland, Mixtec migrants in Mexico and the United States, and human rights, broadly defined. I teach in all these areas, as well as regularly teaching introductory courses. My service areas coincide with my research and teaching areas and center on human rights, public policy, and social responsibility.
