- 10. A topic of your choice cleared with me first.

Format: I will NOT ACCEPT papers that do not follow the guidelines outlined in the online Guide to Style containing the format guidelines of the MLA, plus instructions on writing papers, sample introductory paragraphs with developed theses, frequent errors in critical writing, and a list of tools for the literature student. Review documentation procedures and follow the distinctions outlined for shorter and longer prose and poetry quotations. Persistent errors in format will result in lower grades.

Sources: You should draw on a minimum of 5 scholarly sources to support your thesis; this means you might actually have to look at 10 to find 5 useful ones. Only one of those sources should be an online source, such as a respectable website. In case of doubt, run the source by me first. Full-text databases are NOT considered online sources, as they usually only make regular scholarly journal articles available online. You should consult scholarly books and journals. Start with the International MLA Bibliography (NOT the Index of Periodicals) in and/or the International Medieval Bibliography in the UNM database system. Links to those and others are on the class webpage. After you identify potential books and articles in these databases, you need to check if they might be available through one of the online full-text resources or in the stacks in the form of essay collections. If not, you can order them through Interlibrary Loan (ILL): <http://illiad.unm.edu/illiad/logon.html>. Articles come through in a few days as pdf files, but you clearly must plan ahead. You should also search Libros for books on your topic, and you might try WorldCat in the database section. It lists all books published, while Libros only contains what UNM has.

Structure: I would like to reiterate that you are writing a formal paper, both in content and in style. Thus, your paper needs an introduction providing a context and a precisely phrased thesis at the end of the first paragraph (see especially #2-3 in Guide to Style). I encourage you to edit, revise, and proofread your papers, striving for coherence, grammatical correctness, and good transitions. First drafts rarely hold up to critical scrutiny. I am available in office hours or via email to discuss ideas, outlines, and drafts of your paper with you before it is due. Sample papers for this assignment can be accessed on the class webpage with a UNM netid and password.

Note: The following sections in the Guide to Style might be especially helpful for this assignment: 1-10, 28-30, 32, 42-50, 53-62, 72-76, 81-83. Also see 102-7 for proper usage of quotations and paraphrases.

Due Date: Email proposal by 4.15.2009. Turn final paper in under my office door or with the English Department receptionist Thursday, 5.7.2009.
