

News from the fall 2010 CFA newsletter

While Google and other online search engines provide access to millions of images, even this selection is not sufficient or of adequate quality to support the specialized and unique educational emphases of UNM's College of Fine Arts and School of Architecture and Planning programs. It is just this gap that the Bunting Library strives to fill, as exemplified in a recent collaboration with art studio professor Ligia Bouton and graduate student Myriam Tapp. In this project, images of contemporary art were captured in high quality digital files and cataloged with full descriptive and documentary data. These visual resources are now available in the Bunting Library to all faculty and students, and will soon be accessible through ARTstor. For anyone still unfamiliar with ARTstor, please give us a call at 277-6415, or stop by. We can get you going with the basics in just a few minutes.

Image: Ligia Bouton, Assistant Professor, Art & Art History reviews newly cataloged BVRL material which will support her Interdisciplinary Foundations courses.