

International Studies
Institute at the University of New Mexico

The International Studies Institute (ISI) is an umbrella organization for four interdisciplinary undergraduate degree programs in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of New Mexico -- European Studies, Asian Studies (including the Middle East), Russian Studies, and now International Studies.

Our primary goal is to provide greater opportunities for the dissemination of knowledge about all parts of the world on the UNM campus and throughout the state. In addition, the ISI coordinates with the region's National Resource Centers for Area Studies in order to provide easier access to their resources, especially in the area of secondary and primary school outreach and their expert faculty. The ISI seeks to attract faculty with international experience, and develop relationships with local, regional, and global communities by supporting faculty and student exchange programs to all parts of the world.

International Studies Institute
University of New Mexico
Christine Sauer, Director and
Professor of Economics
Economics Bldg. #2005
(505) 277-1963 or 277-5304
isi@unm.edu
www.unm.edu/~isi

UNM
College of Arts and Sciences
International Studies Institute
presents

Fall Lecture Series

Revolutions of 1989:

*From Tiananmen Square
to the Berlin Wall*

November 2-9, 2009

The University of New Mexico, College of Arts and Sciences International Studies Institute invites you to attend the 2009 Fall Lecture Series:

Revolutions of 1989: From Tiananmen Square to the Berlin Wall

Seven days of lectures free and open to the public. Held in Dane Smith Hall 120/125 (Nov. 2-6); closing lecture (Nov. 9) at the SUB, Ballroom B, UNM, Albuquerque.

The International Studies Institute at UNM will host its 7th public lecture series on the events of 1989 that swept across Eastern Europe and other communist countries. On the 20th anniversary of these revolutions, the lecture series will examine their causes and consequences from a multi-disciplinary, global perspective.

Distinguished speakers with areas of expertise as diverse as Geography, German Studies, History, Russian Studies, Slavic Languages & Literatures, and Women's Studies will discuss how the unparalleled events of 1989 unfolded and shaped the cultural, political, and socio-economic landscapes in Bulgaria, China, Germany, Poland, Russia, and former Yugoslavia.

Monday, November 2 (Dane Smith Hall 120)

2:00 pm: "Nothing Happened Here: Tiananmen Square 1989," Fabio Lanza, Assistant Professor of History, University of Arizona

Tuesday, November 3 (Dane Smith Hall 120)

12:30 pm: "Did Yugoslavia Have a 1989?" Melissa Bokovoy, Associate Professor of History and Regents' Lecturer, UNM

Wednesday, November 4 (Dane Smith Hall 120)

2:00 pm: "Home Is Where the Wall Is: Ambivalence in Margarethe von Trotta's 1994 Film The Promise," Katja Schröter, Associate Professor of German, UNM

Thursday, November 5 (Dane Smith Hall 120 & 125)

12:30 pm: Panel Discussion on "Life under Socialism" with UNM faculty members Sever Bordeianu (General Library), Tania Ivanova (FLL), Katja Schröter (FLL); moderated by Erika Monahan (History)

5:30 pm: "Nouveau Bravado or Brave New World? Russian Culture after 1989," Helena Gosciolo, Professor and Chair of Slavic Languages & Literatures, Ohio State University

Friday, November 6 (Dane Smith Hall 120)

2:00 pm: "The Emergence of Transnational Subjects: The EU Eastern Enlargement and Women's Activism in Poland," Joanna Regulska, Professor of Women's Studies and Geography, Dean of International Programs, Rutgers University

Monday, November 9 (SUB Ballroom B)

5:30 pm: "Tearing Down the Wall: The East German Revolution and German Unification, 1989-1990," Jonathan Zatlín, Associate Professor of History, Boston University