Short Narrative Description of Research, Teaching, and Service Interests

Research: My research agenda focuses on understanding the impact of racial and ethnic diversity on the U.S. political system, racial and ethnic health disparities in the United States, and the role of race and ethnicity in the policy-making process more broadly. I currently have published three co-authored books, three edited volumes, twelve solo or co-authored book chapters, forty-eight research articles in print in peer reviewed journals, and have five manuscripts accepted for publication (forthcoming) in peer reviewed journals. I also have well over 100 blog posts, white papers, op-eds, research reports or other academic products. My initial research program examined the role of group identity in Latino political behavior. Subsequent research has expanded on these themes, exploring the foundations of group identity across multiple racial/ethnic groups. My pursuit of group identity among racial/ethnic groups will continue to be central to my research agenda, as reflected in the working papers I have at various stages in the process. I have also been very active in sponsored research, serving as PI or Co-PI on 22 grants/contracts with a total of approximately $9,159,731 in overall funding to UNM. I also direct a vibrant research center at UNM that has generated approximately $11,457,096 in overall funding under my leadership, and that has utilized academic and applied research to inform public policy decisions as the federal, state, and local levels.

Teaching: My teaching at UNM has included eleven sections of American Politics (PS 200), including two sections of Freshman Learning Community versions, courses that are designed with collaborative learning methods intended to engage students through active learning. I have also led six sections of Racial and Ethnic Politics (PS 307), three sections of Public Opinion and Electoral Behavior (PS 305), and two graduate Research Seminars in Racial and Ethnic Politics (PS 511). I have received strong evaluations from students across all courses. I have also developed and taught two sections of a “Job Market Preparation” course that has had a marked impact on the placements of graduate students in the social sciences at UNM, and have given multiple workshops at the ICPSR Summer Program at the University of Michigan. I have chaired two PhD committees, and have several doctoral and masters students under my supervision as chair or committee member. I have published several manuscripts (many more in development) with PhD students from UNM and other institutions, and I have mentored several promising undergraduates. Finally, I have mentored multiple post-docs and junior faculty associated with the RWJF Center for Health Policy, as well as junior faculty outside of UNM. I have emphasized mentoring heavily in my career, and I have been recognized for my efforts with multiple UNM Faculty of Color Awards and the inaugural “Luminaria” Presidential award for commitment to diversity in mentoring.
