2014 Writing the World Symposium
“Rhetorical Listening: Navigating Disparities in Privilege”
Friday, April 11 9am-4pm
SUB Santa Ana A&B

9 –9:10— Opening Remarks with WAC Co-Captains Clare Russell and Matthew Tougas

9:10AM-10AM — Preserving Cultural Wisdom and Alternative Literacies in Academic Spaces

10:10-11AM — Experiential and Experimental Learning: Courses that Contradict Traditional Academic Knowledge and Literacy Part 1: Instructor Panel

11:10–12PM — Experiential and Experimental Learning: Courses that Contradict Traditional Academic Knowledge and Literacy Part 2: Student Panel

12 PM –1PM — Rhetorical Listening, What’s Next?
Krista Ratcliffe is a full professor and Chair of the English department at Marquette University. She is the president of the Rhetoric Society of America and the former president of the Coalition of Women Scholars in the History of Rhetoric & Composition.

1:10-2PM — Negotiating Gender, Sexual Orientation and Identity in the Academic Space

2-10-3PM — Civil Rights Rhetoric: The History and Work of Navigating Disparities in Privilege

3:10-4 PM — Lobo Reading Experience Discussion: Local Citizen Scholars and Community Literacy

Sponsored By:
The University of New Mexico
Dept. of English
Office of Student Academic Success
Office of Academic Affairs
Office of Student Affairs
Center for Academic Program Support (CAPS)
Feminist Research Institute

For information about Writing Across Communities visit: www.unm.edu/~wac